The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 2 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Allison et al, for the reasons of record. Applicants' argument, that the present invention provides an alternative use for waste oxide gas streams, which would be otherwise destined to be vented, or treated with a waste oxide gas abatement system and then vented, to the atmosphere, is not convincing. Allison et al disclose at col. 5, lines 6-9 that intermediate stream 30 may include water and carbon dioxide. It would be expected that such water and carbon dioxide would otherwise have been destined to be vented to the atmosphere in the process of Allison et al, since it is well-known that water and carbon dioxide are harmless gases which are typically released to the atmosphere. Allison et al disclose at col. 5, lines 9 and 10 that intermediate stream 30 may also include unreacted hydrocarbon feedstock, and at col. 5, lines 30-32 that a CPOX catalyst may be provided in reaction zone 2. Accordingly Allison et al contemplate treatment of intermediate stream 30 in a partial oxidation process.

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1, 2 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. There is no "description support" in the original specification for employing "oxidation of hydrocarbons" or "ammoxidation of hydrocarbons" as the second industrial process.
